

Retirement of Chief Darryl Albright

The Northeastern Regional Police Department would like to announce the retirement of Chief Darryl Albright. Chief Darryl Albright has been the Chief of Police since the departments' inception in 1983. Over the years Chief Albright brought the department from a five man department with the office space no bigger than a small closet to a department consisting of eleven men and a 5700 square foot police building. Over the years Chief Albright has recruited officers that have been trained in the latest police technologies and tactics. Chief Albright has demonstrated compassion and kindness to the people in his community as well as his outstanding leadership within the department. We will miss him. His last day was December 31, 2009. However, we wish him good luck with his new job as Chief County Detective for the County of York.
